100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. (This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led, by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded, to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bear-skin overcoat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse clothing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him. Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

I. T. SPODDERT,

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named JAMES, about 22 years of age, his fore-teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather, old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there. I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home.

Notice.

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Doane Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HAR-RY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again.

IS known to have been kidnapped from a field near Germantown, between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock, on the 30th ult. whilst at work alone, a Free Black Man, named HENRY HUDSON, aged between 21 and 22 years, of the height of five feet five inches, very black complexion and dark eyes, has a scar under his left arm, between the wrist and elbow, occasioned by the cut of an axe.

He is by occupation a farmer, a native of Kent county, in the state of Delaware, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket, old black silk vest, corded velvet pantaloons, and a wool hat.

He is a very civil, inoffensive man, with rather a down look. There is reason to suppose that he was decoyed into a carriage, and conveyed southward.

Any information respecting him will be thankfully received. Keepers of turnpike gates, toll bridges, and taverns, are particularly requested to give such information as may be in their power.

Missouri and Illinois Bounty

Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands; every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown and Washington, and the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.

Fourteen new cases of fever were reported to the Board of Health for the 24 hours ending on Thursday morning.

New-York, Sept. 14.
The Board of Health reported no new case of fever yesterday; but Dr. Hosack in a note, informed the Board, that his patient in White-street, which he had reported the day before, was convalescent.

Charleston, (S. C.) Sept. 11.
GENERAL MAC GREGOR
To the Editor of the Southern Patriot.
"Aux-Coyes, Aug. 8.

"Annexed you have the details of events relative to Mac Gregor's expedition, since the last communication on the subject.

"On the 14th July, the brig Eli Mac Gregor and Tarantula, left their moorings and anchored off the Isle of Nache, when a dreadful malady raged on board both vessels, carrying off 4 or 5 men per day. On the 19th, the Mac Gregor got under way, and in coming in, ran aground a little to windward of Turtle Fort; and on the 23d, she bilged and fell over on her larboard side, when the Creoles commenced plundering her of sails, rigging, &c. and soon left her perfectly stripped of every thing; and her patriotic crew plundered one another—such a scene of villainy and distress, has perhaps never before been witnessed. When the brig fell over, there were in her cabin, gun room, &c. about 25 sick men and women, who were suffered to drown without a single effort to save them; among the number was the French major. Since the distressing circumstance, several dead bodies have floated ashore in the harbor, almost opposite our counting-house. After the Mac Gregor came in, we sent a pilot to the Tarantula, who brought her into Flamm Bay. On the 20th, the Tarantula's boat, under the direction of Dr. McKee, brought the body of the unfortunate Col. M'Carthy on shore, who had died that morning of the prevailing disease, and although he was second in command to the expedition, the general paid his remains no more respect than would be have done to a dog: I had him decently interred in the church-yard of this place. Since my last, upwards of 60 men and officers have died, and been buried by private subscription. Such has been the humanity of Gen. Mac Gregor.

"It is clearly ascertained that Mac Gregor got possession of the register and gun-ligence of the Hero, (now the Mac Gregor) by very unfair means; that a fellow who had held some petty station on board the Hero, of the name of Lannor, broke the desk of Captain Hudson, commander and proprietor of the brig, during a severe attack of the fever, and took thence those documents, placed them in the hands of Mac Gregor, who accordingly took possession of the vessel as his property; and when, on the recovery of Captain Hudson, he made application to the president of the court for the restoration of his property, the reply was, 'you came in under the flag of a government we do not recognize, (New-Grenada) and I cannot interfere; had you have continued under British colors, I could have acted in the case.' Capt. Hudson immediately employed a vessel to carry him to Jamaica, to complain to the British authority; and has written to Mr. McIntosh, of this place, that he hourly expected that a frigate would be dispatched in pursuit of Mac Gregor and the brig; but, alas, the carcass of the former, and hull of the latter, is all he can ever get to recompense him for his loss.

"There evidently appears to have been a design in running the brig on shore, as no kind of effort was made to get her off (a thing entirely practicable) and all assistance for that purpose promptly refused.

"Mac Gregor's next design was to get possession of the Tarantula, in Flamm Bay, and sent a few days ago a boat and 25 men with that intention, but Captain Poolman hearing of his plan in time, sent orders to his mate to defend the brig to the last extremity, and at no time or on any account to suffer an individual to come on board without a written order from him; this order was promptly obeyed, and when Mac Gregor's boat came within hail, they were threatened with a broadside if they did not shear off; which they thought best to do, and returned without having accomplished their object.

"The charter treaty of the Tarantula having been violated in many respects by the agents of the government of Mac Gregor, and the captain having formally protested against them, he determined on quitting Mac Gregor and his disastrous enterprise. During the 4th inst. having learned that the Captain General intended making another and more determined effort to get possession; he went on board in the evening, and early next morning went to sea (with about 30 patriots who had abandoned the service) and left the Captain-General and 25 or 30 men on shore, and thus happily rid himself of a service commenced in folly and ending in disaster and disgrace. I do not believe that out of the two detachments which have been raised in Great Britain, for Mac Gregor's service, and which formed an aggregate of about 800 men, that at present more than 150 survive. The first of about 500 men, have been totally destroyed at Porto Bello, so say the Jamaica papers; and the second of 400 have nearly all died of famine and pestilence at this place."

From the Philadelphia Aurora.

COPY of the official dispatch of the admiral BRION, to the general of brigade, LARO CLEMENTI, commandant of the marine at Margarita, dated 19th July, on board the Victoria, at anchor in the bay of Cumana.

SIR—I have the satisfaction to inform you of the capture of Barcelona, and the Moro, by our forces. On the 16th at midnight, the squadron came to anchor in the Port of Pazuelos—next day at six in the morning, the troops were landed with two field pieces—and at two o'clock on the morning of the 18th, they moved upon Barcelona, which it was found had been evacuated in the night. A part of the Spanish army marched in the direction of Piritu, and another to the Moro. The republican troops occupied Barcelona at 10 o'clock, A. M. At 8 o'clock, I dispatched a detachment to reconnoitre the Moro, with my aid-de-camp and the major of marines, Graham, with orders to ascertain the circumstances of three different points at which a landing might be effected—but having ascertained and with much difficulty, the situation of only two points, and these presenting many difficulties, I resolved to take the different posts by assault. With this intention, I detached 1600 men under the command of colonel Jackson, and another detachment of equal number under colonel Garsain. The first column was ordered to proceed by a forced march against the old castle, and the second to gain the summit of a height where there was a circular intrenched battery. At the same time, the schrs. Franklin and Favorite were ordered to attract the attention of the enemy in the new castle at the foot of the Moro, upon the peninsula, in order to facilitate the passage of the fleet into the port. At 5 o'clock, P. M. our marines and seamen were landed under the cover of our ships, and nothing could retard the ardor of those gallant men. At 5, all the forts and intrenchments of the enemy were in our possession. The enemy making their escape by the peninsula—but experiencing a brisk fire from our schooners and flechas, the fleet entered the port in succession, keeping up so brisk a fire on the forts, that they only returned our fire twice, and then made their flight with so much precipitation, that they did not wait to spike their guns.

We had an officer and three seamen wounded, the commandant of the enemy's artillery, Mayo, and nine of his corps were killed. We made a great number of prisoners, and the fugitives are now returning to the town—every individual has distinguished himself in this affair—and by the enclosed return you will find what has fallen to our hands.

The troops could not reach Barcelona until nine o'clock the next morning—a great number of the enemy have passed the river in the direction of Piritu. The Spanish flotilla, composed of two sloops, the Nympha and Descubierta, a brig, three schooners, two sloops, two feluccas and eight large flechas, were at anchor at Pazuelos, with many other small crafts, laden with troops, and moved upon the northern part of the island, with the intention of effecting a landing and re-inforcing the royal army—but the arrival of 400 men of our expedition, intercepted them and defeated that design.

General Marino has defeated a second time, the Spanish gen. Arana, and he is now at Clarines. When we took possession of the Moro, the Spanish flotilla was in sight—the troops on board were intended as succors for Barcelona, but after seeing us in possession of the place, they made sail to the eastward.

After landing 150 men, I made sail in pursuit of this flotilla, and pursued them into the port of Cumana, but when within two gun shot of them, a calm coming on at 6 in the evening, deprived our country of the glory of capturing them, a disappointment which has caused no small mortification in our squadron. I consider the Spaniards at Cumana as very much contumacious, but the people of the country manifest much exultation at our approach, and their prospect of deliverance. I must confess to you that I am very much disappointed in my expectations from this enterprise.

This morning I had calculated that before this hour my flag would be hoisted on board the Nymph. God preserve you, &c.

BATTLE OF CHISPERO.
Copy of a dispatch of Gen. Marino, to the general in chief of the army of Venezuela, dated at Chispero, 12th day of June, 1819.

SIR—Having collected the greatest force that was practicable, of the army of the east, at St. Diego, I made the necessary disposition to remount cavalry, and remove the horses which were not perfectly fit for effective operations—on the 1st inst. I received information, from a flying camp, established in Urunare, that the enemy had in contemplation to advance into the plains, for the purpose of collecting cattle—and in order to frustrate that design—the squadron of lancers of Monagas, was directed to move against them, and after ascertaining their strength, to make his dispositions for cutting them off, and if the enemy should prove too inconsiderable, to take a position in his rear.

On the 9th I received advice from lieutenant. col. Sotillo, the officer in command of this detached corps, that the royal troops had taken the direction of Santa Maria; the infantry were immediately put in motion under the command of general Thomas Montilla, with orders to make forced marches,—he marched early in the morning—at four in the afternoon I followed him with a strong squadron of hussars—on the night of the same day I was joined by the infantry—and on the 11th, lieutenant. col. Sotillo joined us with many prisoners from the enemy, who had encamped on the bank of the river Losara; and there received positive information that the enemy's force consisted of 1500 men, and that he had burnt the city of Pao, because he found there only one person, a woman of 80 years. Being seven o'clock, at night, I halted to refresh the troops. At 12 o'clock at night, I resumed my march, taking with me in advance, 80 select cavalry, with the intention of reconnoitering the enemy's position, to distract him by skirmishing on his flanks, and in order to afford the whole division time to come up. On the 12th, at seven in the morning, after a severe march of eight leagues, I discovered the enemy's rear guard, when we instantly halted and took an advantageous position. Immediately the skirmishing with my eighty brave men commenced, and the enemy having detached against us all his cavalry, a feigned retreat was ordered, which had been previously concerted with the express purpose of drawing them into the plains. After an apparent flight on our part, orders were given to return upon the enemy into two columns, and we succeeded as was expected in disconcerting and putting the whole to flight; they left fourteen men dead on the ground, and we took a trumpeter and several horses ready accounted. We pursued the fugitive cavalry within sight of the enemy's infantry; when their whole force commenced a retreat in several small columns, persuaded that our whole army was present. Orders were given immediately to the main body of the army to move on rapidly. At Calenturas the army was divided in two columns—the first under my immediate command, composed of 400 coast-guard, under col. Cova, 50 caribbeers under lieutenant. col. Sotillo, and the 80 brave cavalry lancers, who had previously accompanied me. The second column under the command of general Thomas Montilla, and composed of the infantry of the line under col. Mires—the squadron of hussars under—who, in a close column, was directed to cover the left flank, and the lancers of Monagas, to cover the right flank, under the command of col. Manuel Arevalo.

The enemy returned the fire of our light troops (guerrillas) with a good countenance along the banks of the Unare, which is covered with very deep forests. The advance of his troops took their march with the stream of the river, and it was at this moment the valor of our troops was put to the test; the infantry, by the river and forest side, and the cavalry on the plain sometimes on horseback, and sometimes dismounted along the line of the forest, pursued the enemy in the most steady and exact order. The royal troops were closely pursued as far as Chispero, that is, a distance of more than five leagues, and there attempted to resist; and here our soldiers began a most terrible havoc on the enemy who soon began to give away. The general of the enemy had been guilty of so much barbarity, on his route from his entrance of the territory, that it was not possible to restrain the vengeance of the soldiers and it was only owing to our strict discipline, that I could succeed in preserving 100 prisoners, the remainder excepting their commander and about one hundred men more, who fled with him, rest on the field of battle, as well as a brass field piece, five hundred muskets with bayonets, and a quantity of belts and cartridge boxes; 10,000 cartridges were picked up on the field of battle, besides 12,000 more in caissons, a black flag and a standard, eight drums, three bugle horns, a trumpet, 120 lances with banner rolls, a medicine chest; all the equipments, and papers, and correspondence of the general staff, including twenty dispatches, a number of sabres, and a large quantity of provisions.

Among the killed of the enemy are many Spanish and American officers, two surgeons; the number of officers altogether is thirteen, according to the inspection made and the admission of the prisoners—among the killed is the second in command of the regiment of the queen, Don Antonio Delgado.

Our loss has been 24 killed and 47 dangerously wounded, and several slightly—among our killed is the lieutenant of hussars, Andreas Bello, and among the wounded, lieutenant. col. Arguindegui, the captain of the company of the terrible battalion; a lieutenant of the second battalion of infantry of Barcelona, Jose Maria Ponce, and a lieutenant of hussars, Jose Antonio Griego; you must not be surprised that our loss has been so inconsiderable; when the celerity, promptitude, and good discipline of our infantry, with which they performed all their manœuvres, is considered, and the terrible charge made by our cavalry, who disconcerted the enemy at every point, and who still continue the pursuit of the enemy's commander.

We are still exploring the enemy's camp, and more prisoners and muskets arrive every moment. The Spanish general, Arana, and those who accompanied him in his flight, owe their lives to the darkness of the night and an unusual rain, which did not cease till the next day. They have escaped on foot by ascending trackless passes in the mountain. They have left all their baggage, cattle, among which are a great number of mules.

It was impossible for the whole of the army to act at the same time in the affair of yesterday. The squadrons forming the cavalry of general Cedeno, did not arrive until two hours after the action was decided; notwithstanding the extraordinary march made by this excellent general from St. Diego. The troops under gen. Bermudez, are not yet arrived, but are expected every moment.

All our artillery, with 100 infantry, have remained at St. Diego with the hospital and the reserved park.

General Cedeno, who is gone in advance, must be by this time at Chispero, or perhaps farther, with orders to send in the spoils and the prisoners whom he may make in his march, I shall communicate to you the results.

It is my duty to inform you that the chiefs, officers and soldiers of this army, have done their duty, and that during the whole of their marches, and in the action, an emulation was perceptible among them, each seeking who should most contribute to the issue of this very decided victory;

* This officer was one of those who was confined at Ceuta, with Rosio and others, and made his escape thence—he is an officer of fine talents and experience.—Aurora.

and notwithstanding I have the return of officers who particularly distinguished themselves, and which shall be forwarded by the next opportunity, I cannot but commend most particularly, on this occasion, general Th. Montilla, and the eighty brave men, officers and soldiers, who accompanied me in the advance, to penetrate the enemy's line, particularly the colonels Barela and Monagas, and lieutenant colonels Sotillo, and Arevalo, they merit distinction; col. Cova and Arguindegui, lieutenant. colonel Donop. This has been the result of the Spanish expedition composed of the troops of this province, and of companies of the queen's regiment, which were sent from Cumana. There were 1000 infantry, 150 cavalry, an equal number of volunteers of St. Mateo, and 20 flechas (men with bows and arrows)—all those about 400 men have escaped. God preserve, &c.

ST. JAGO MARINO.

From the Prince of Wales Island Gazette.

PULO-PENANG, April 3, 1819.
On Thursday morning, were landed on the beach two negroes from the Andaman Islands, captured by the crew of a Chinese junk. Their appearance excited much interest and curiosity, as a race of people generally considered as Cannibals. The following account of them has been obligingly communicated to us by a gentleman who has very humanely taken them under his care.

"A Chinese junk, manned partly by Chinese and partly by Burmahs, proceeded to the Andaman Islands to collect Becho de Mar, and laying about two miles from the shore, they observed about nine or ten of the savages approaching the junk wading through the water. Upon coming within a short distance of the vessel they discharged several showers of arrows, which severely wounded four of the Chinese. The Burmahs gave immediate pursuit in their boat, and after much difficulty took two of the savages prisoners.

"During the chase they were frequently observed to dive and make their appearance at a considerable distance, to elude their pursuers. Several of the arrows were picked up by the Chinese, which are now in my possession—they are made of rattans with a piece of hard wood for a point, and an iron nail or fishbone fastened to the extremity in such a manner as to render it difficult to extract, if it enters the body.

"These negroes are extremely diminutive in stature, though apparently well formed, and their limbs and arms are uncommonly small; one of them is 4 feet 6 inches, the other 4 feet 7 inches high, and each weighing 76 lbs. avoirdupois. They have large paunches, and though so small, are in good condition. One is an elderly man of ferocious aspect, the other a boy about 17, of a good expression of countenance. They appear dull and heavy, extremely averse to speaking; when conversing, which they only do when left alone and imagine they are unobserved—they make a noise resembling much the cackling of turkeys. They are of a jet black colour, and their skin has an extraordinary shining appearance, and their bodies are tattooed all over; of a most voracious appetite, and crack the bones of fowls with their teeth with the greatest facility.—Their manner of ascending a cocoa nut tree is remarkable, running up like a monkey, and descending with astonishing velocity."

As some account of the inhabitants of the Andamans may not be unacceptable to our readers: we have great pleasure in submitting the following extract from the "East India Gazetteer," which, it will be observed, corresponds materially with the description given of the two negroes above mentioned.

"The population of the great Andaman, & all its dependencies does not exceed 2000 or 2500 souls: these are dispersed in small societies along the coast, or on the lesser island within the harbor, never penetrating deeper into the interior than the skirts of the forest. Their occupation seems to be that of climbing rocks, or roving along the margin of the sea in quest of precarious meal of fish, which during the tempestuous season, they often seek in vain.

"It is an object of much curiosity to discover the origin of a race of people so widely differing, not only from all the inhabitants of the neighbouring continent, but also from those of the Nicobar Islands, however, the inquiries of travellers have produced no satisfactory conclusion. In stature the Andamans seldom exceed five feet; their limbs are disproportionately slender; their bellies protuberant, with high shoulders and heads; and they appear to be a degenerated race of negroes, with woolly hair, flat noses and thick lips; their eyes are small and red, their skin of a deep sooty black, while their countenances exhibit the extreme of wretchedness—a horrid mixture of famine and ferocity. They go quite naked, and are insensible to any shame from exposure.

"The few implements they use are of the roughest texture. Their principal weapon is a bow, from 4 to 5 feet long; the string made of the of Bamboo, with with fishbone, or fire. Besides this heavy wood, shab made of bark. with great dexterity use a small band of bark. Having the fish on the broiled.

fire. Besides this, they carry a spear of heavy wood, sharp pointed, and a shield made of bark. They shoot and spear fish with great dexterity, and are said also to use a small hand net, made of the filaments of bark. Having kindled a fire, they throw the fish on the coals and devour it half broiled.

Their habitations display little more ingenuity than the dens of wild beasts. Four sticks fixed in the ground are bound at the top, and fastened transversely by others, to which branches of trees are suspended:
an opening just large enough to admit of entrance is left on one side, and their bed is composed of leaves. Being much inconvenienced by insects, their first occupation of a morning is to plaster their bodies all over with mud, which hardening in the sun, forms an impenetrable armour. Their woolly heads they paint with ochre & water, and when thus completely dressed, a more hideous appearance is not to be found in the human form. Their situation is performed by lifting up one leg, and smacking with their hand the lower part of the thigh.

"Their canoes are hollowed out of the trunks of trees, by fire and instruments of stone, having no iron in use among them
but such as they accidentally procured from Europeans, or from vessels wrecked on their coast. The men are cunning and revengeful, and have a great hatred to strangers; they have never made any attempt to cultivate the land, but subsist on what they can pick up or kill.

"The language of the Andamaners has not been discovered to possess the slightest affinity to that which is spoken in India,
or among the islands.

"They appear to express an adoration to the sun, the genii of woods, waters and mountains. In storms they apprehend the influence of a malignant being, and deprecate his wrath by chanting wild choruses.
Of a future it is not known that they have any idea, which probably arises from our imperfect means of discovering their opinion."

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last,
a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepturn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trousers
—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

Guistion for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pollock creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania. I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment. Letters must be addressed to me at Pollock Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor.
Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling.
RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.
S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case; and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journey men's wages; and to prevent any supposition of imposition on the one hand or dissatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journey men are paid in Alexandria.
N.B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.
S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

PROSPECTUS
Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

By Rev. WM. HAWLEY, Washington, Rev. WM. H. WILMER, Alexandria, Rev. OLIVER NORRIS, Alexandria, Rev. REUEL KEITH, Georgetown, Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.
If any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been a matter of equal surprise and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprise of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.
The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to lose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."
Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successfully pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.
The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.
It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.
